In 1727 construction of the Homestead was started by George Dennison (1699-1747). George, probably of the Irish branch of the Dennisons, was living at the time at 10 River Road in Annisquam, a house which he built. A contract (original held by Cape Ann Museum) was made between George and John Day for the Homestead foundation and chimney for £51. A well was dug, although most of the water came from a nearby stream. The site was a gravelly knoll on the old Sandy Bay Road, now Revere Street. George’s will dated 1748 describes the property as “house and orchard and about 40 acres, one wood lot and one ½ acre lying near to and adjoining to Goose Cove in Gloucester so called, all of which I purchased of Jonathan Stanwood and adjoining to land I purchased of said Francis Norwood.” A 1971 valuation of 14 Revere Street by Edgar A. Roberts: $48,000.

During the Dennison family’s ownership of the Homestead and its additional acquisitions, it went through many complicated maneuvers such as divisions, exchanges and repurchases over the years.

The first George ran a store which carried groceries, woolen and cotton cloth, fish lines, 4 brands of rum and “cornmeal mash” served hot and cold. George farmed and had cows, sheep, oxen, hogs, poultry and driving horses. He also sold hard and soft wood, logs and firewood and supplied the Essex shipyard with wood as well as templates for the Cape Ann Granite Company. Provisioning vessels - see the two Ledgers - was also very active. When the stores ceased operation, Isaac’s grandson, David, bought the house and some of its additional land and erected a grist mill (1820s). David’s son, also named David, went to California during the Gold Rush, made sure he earned good wages, returned to Annisquam and started buying up the odd acquisitions that the first George had made 100 years earlier as the Homestead estate.
The Homestead was owned and occupied by various members of the Dennison family up until about 1906/08 when it was sold out of the family.

1727 George and Abigail, first occupants. George died 1743 or 1747 (buried in Annisquam Burial Ground, now Mount Adnah). Abigail stayed on (died 1753) and “perhaps” daughter Abigail remained in the Homestead.

1823 David (1797-1836) leased the Homestead for 1 year from Samuel Kimball.

1824 Homestead repaired by James Dennison (1790-1855)

1832 David (1797-1836) bought the Homestead for $850 from Isaac’s estate, allowing Isaac’s widow to remain if she wished. David acquired additional land that comprised the entire Dennison Homestead which he now owned.

1852 David (1825-1910), who owned 1/7 of the Homestead, bought 3/7 of the Homestead from his father David’s (1797-1836) estate and 1/7 from “Legall et al.”

1860 David (1825-1910) bought 2/7 from his brothers Charles and Edward, making him the sole owner of the entire Homestead.

1908 Sold to Charles H. Hoyt - a lumberman.

1917 Hoyt sold to A.M. Emerson for $5,000

1923 Sold to William and Darly Sutherland

1932 Sold to Earl E. Sanborn - famous stained glass artist. He constructed a studio.

1941 Professor Frederick H. Norton bought the Homestead and modernized the house: heating, kitchen and downstairs bathroom. He established a tree farm and won an award for it in 1972. In 1975 he established it as a permanent forest under the New England Forestry Foundation. Currently Frederick Jr’s widow, Marcia F. Norton, lives in the Homestead. Frederick Jr. died in 1989.

Of interest:
Abigail Haraden, wife of the first George, was the sister of Andrew Haraden captain of the vessel Squirrel when it was taken by the Pirate John Phillips.

Elizabeth Ann Dennison, sister of David (1825-1910), married A.J. Wiggin, artist and portrait painter, and they lived near the Homestead for “several years,” at least 1851-1856.

David Dennison, pattern maker at the Cape Ann Granite Co., sailed round Cape Horn in 1850.

Other Dennison branches:
“Mellie” Dunham of Norway, ME, made snowshoes and supplied Admiral Perry’s North Pole expedition. In addition, he was the champion fiddler of Maine and caught the eye of Henry Ford who invited him to Detroit offering a “substantial” sum which Mellie refused and would only take the usual $3. He then had a vaudeville contract which netted $20,000.

Aaron L. Dennison (1812-1895) founder of the American Watch Co. made an inexpensive watch that had an English appearance. It came in standard sizes and had parts readily available.
1849 Aaron joined Edward Howard who had a watch factory and they operated successfully until 1856 when the venture went into bankruptcy. In 1864 Aaron became involved with A.O. Bigelow of Bigelow, Kennard & Co. in the manufacture of watches. See photo of Waltham Watch Co., 1857. Aaron also constructed the first poured-concrete factory in America.

Eliphalet W. Dennison (1819-1886) founded Dennison Manufacturing Co. of Framingham, MA. He started in business by making tags and by 1870 had expended to include the manufacture of boxes, twine, sealing wax, gummed labels, etc. He had stores in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

Scope and Content of the Collection

The Dennison Family Papers – Richard Souza Research Collection contains original documents such as accounts, deeds and letters, photographs, and newspaper clipping about Dennison family members. The collection consists mainly of the financial records (bills and receipts) of Dennison family members between 1734 and 1890. There are also legal papers, including deeds from the 1820s to the 1900s, and family genealogy papers such as marriage certificates. A small collection of correspondence between various family members beginning with a letter written in 1775 during the Revolutionary War to letters sent home from Europe in WWII is also of interest.
